RICHARDSON FAMILY

(1) SAMUEL RICHARDSON was one of three brothers who helped in the settlement of Woburn, MA. He was born in Westmill Parish, Hertfordshire, England ca 1610. He came here about 1636. In 1637 his name appears on the list of inhabitants of Charlestown, MA. He was allotted a houseplot in Charlestown, and was admitted to the church there in Feb. 18, 1637/8. He was made freeman of the colony on May 2, 1638, and chosen for surveyor of the highways Mar. 17, 1636/7. Samuel must have been between 25 and 30 years of age when he arrived in New England. On the 5th of Nov., 1640, he and his brothers along with four others were chosen for the settlement of a church and town outside of Charlestown to erect a separate town to be called Woburn. The church was constituted in Woburn on Aug. 14, 1642. The brothers built their homes along a street laid out by the town, which soon became called "Richardson's Row". This is in the area now called Winchester. Samuel was selectman of Woburn in 1644, 1645, 1646, 1649, 1650, and 1651. In 1645 he paid the highest tax of any man in Woburn. His wife was Joanna _____, who joined the church in Charlestown on Sept. 9, 1639. He died intestate on Mar. 23, 1658. Her will was dated June 20, 1666, and she probably died soon after.

He lived on Richardson's Row which was less than a mile north of Winchester. He was a soldier in King Philip's War. In the afternoon on April 10, 1676, he was in the field carting manure, with his son Samuel, who was between five and six years old. Looking toward his house, he was surprised to see feathers flying around. He heard screams, so he hastened home with his gun, and there found his wife Hannah, and his son Thomas, twin brother of Samuel murdered. Searching further, he found his week old baby murdered too. The nurse, apparently, picked up the baby and ran toward a garrison house in the vicinity. She was so closely pursued that she dropped the baby, and the Indians killed it at once. Samuel gathered up some of the neighbors, and they went in pursuit of the Indians. Seeing three sitting on a rock, they fired and killed one and drove the others away. The war with the Indians lasted from June 1675 to August 1676, keeping the whole country in fear and alarm. Twelve or thirteen towns were completely destroyed, while others were badly damaged. About six hundred people were killed, both in battle and murdered. He married his third wife, Phebe Baldwin on Nov. 7, 1676. She died Oct. 20, 1679 aged 25. On Sept. 8, 1680, he married Sarah Hayward daughter of Nathaniel Hayward of Malden. She survived her husband, dying on Oct. 14, 1717 aged 62. Her name was sometimes called Howard.
